

FIRST-YEAR-FLOWERING PERENNIALS: SPRING PLUGS

VIDEO: <https://youtu.be/dUkWnD20J4s>

This video takes a close look at first-year flowering, seed-raised perennials for Spring sales. With fresh breeding coming to market and a variety of plug sizes available from suppliers, a rejuvenation of the seed perennials market is in full swing. These inputs tend to be less expensive than vegetative or more mature plants and they are ideal for high-volume production. But the trick lies in forcing them to flower at the right time.

Chris Fifo walks you through this process using plenty of examples from his career as a grower. You can be assured he's been in your shoes planning production and tackling just about anything you can imagine in a production greenhouse. He digs deep into lighting for long days and shares tips for success, finishing with his top picks for FYF spring perennials from seed.
