

TECH TIP: GERANIUM CHLOROSIS & BREAKDOWN

What do you think would cause this to happen on just one geranium variety overnight?

This looks like poor post-harvest handling. Perhaps the URC was not cooled down prior to packing. If there was a temperature rise in shipping, that could impact the plants, as well. When chlorosis or breakdown happens within four days of receiving, it's often caused by post-harvest issues. If a single bag or variety is affected, it tends to be incorrect post-harvest handling. If the entire box is affected, it tends to be temperature issues in transit.
