

Tech Tip 2018

Impatiens walleriana: Tip abortion

Lack of boron or too much water? It could be either one. Be sure you have sufficient micronutrients in your fertilization program. This often means a supplement is needed in young plant production. Also, excess moisture can reduce evapotranspiration and cause boron deficiency even with supplementation. The shiny pooling water (bottom cell) and root running (top cell) indicate too much water.